

Bulls Verses
the Badgers

By: Skye

Push-ups, jumping jacks, and mountain climbers. Just some of the stretches the Bulls and the Badgers do before their game.

The Bulls start with the ball. They get to the Badgers' side of the court. They pass the ball around, trying to see who gets an open shot. They take a shot and make it.

The Badgers are given the ball. They travel down the court. They pass the ball around, but when they go to take their shot, they miss. The Bulls get the ball and take it back to the other side.

The score is now five for the Bulls and zero for the Badgers. It is now half time, both teams have 15 minutes for a break. The Bulls drink coffee to regain energy, while the Badgers drink chocolate milk.

Halftime is now over, it is The Badgers turn to start with the ball. They dribble the ball down to The Bulls' side of the court, they go for a lay-up, but it bounces off the back board and The Bulls get the ball. The Bulls get the ball to the other side of the court and make a slam dunk!

The Badgers and The Bulls continue going head to head. Soon the game is over, The Bulls win. Both teams meet up to congratulate each other on a good game.

As everyone is exiting the gym, a three year old ran onto the court and took a shot, but the ball bounced back.
